Study Aim

Examine whether the DVHF model is effective in increasing housing stability and reducing abuse over 24 months.

Method

406 unstably housed DV survivors who had recently sought services from one of five DV agencies in the Pacific Northwest were interviewed (in English or Spanish) every 6 months over 24 months. We also examined agency records.

At 24 months:

- Retention rate 89% (363 participants)
- 30 participants had received no services and were excluded from analyses

Analysis compared two groups:

Receiving SAU (Services As Usual)

Receiving DVHF Services

What is Domestic Violence Housing First (DVHF)?

DVHF involves using mobile advocacy and/or flexible funding to help survivors of domestic violence obtain safe and stable housing.

Participant Sample

19-62 years old
average age: 35

35% Hispanic/Latinx
 35% White, non-Hispanic
 19% Black
 12% US Indigenous
 <5% Asian, Middle Eastern
 15% More than one race/ethnicity

housing status at program entry:

- 42% homeless or living in a shelter
- 22% with family/friends without paying rent
- 3% transitional housing or treatment program
- 9% with family/friends and paying rent
- 24% in homes they owned or were renting

Results Across 24 Months

Compared to survivors who received SAU, at 6-months, 12-months, 18-months and 24-months, survivors who received the DVHF model reported:

The DVHF model was equally effective regardless of race (comparing BIPOC with white survivors), ethnicity (comparing Latinx with non-Latinx survivors), or rural/urban location of DV agency.

*Domestic Violence includes physical, emotional, sexual, economic abuse, stalking, and use of children as an abuse tactic.
